

Solicitor & Estate Agent Partnerships are the Future of Conveyancing

Solicitor and Estate Agent Partnerships are the Future of Conveyancing

- Mike Wragg, Solicitor & Paul Brant, Estate Agency Manager, 2 July 2010

Last week. Sir Bryan Carsberg, a former director of the Office of Fair Trading and new president of the E-Homebuying Forum said that he would like to see Solicitors and Estate Agents working together, as they do in Scotland.

Sir Bryan said "The Scottish system, where solicitors employ estate agents, works well." He also went on to say that customers would benefit from a one-stop shop if Solicitors co-operated with Estate Agents and others in the conveyancing process.

This is something we have been doing under the Lightfoots name for many years. At Lightfoots LLP, we offer a seamless service for those moving home in Thame and the surrounding area. Lightfoots LLP Solicitors Estate Agency offers a comprehensive sales and lettings service whilst Lightfoots LLP takes care of the conveyancing all under one roof; as part of a comprehensive package.

Our Solicitors and Estate Agents pull together to ensure that what is often renowned for being a stressful experience is handled as expeditiously and efficiently as possible.

Our Estate Agency is a member of the home sale network and under the Lightfoots name we have been giving legal advice from the heart of Thame since 1860.
